

Three Bucket list Golf Experiences from Around the World

There are almost as many types of golfers as there are courses in the world. When it comes to golf trips, some are looking for adventurous destinations while others want luxurious retreats. Here we offer three different ways to make the most of your golf trip, no matter what kind of traveler you are.

Mediterranean Golf Cruise

You know the Mediterranean for its beautiful white sand beaches, its lush vineyards, and its diverse dining cultures. Some also know the area for its famed golf courses. This week-long luxury cruise allows you to see famous attractions from Barcelona to Genoa. Along with excursions in Spain, France, and Italy, you also have 24-hour access to PerryGolf pros. These onboard experts work with travelers individually and in groups so you'll be ready when you stop at any of the three world-class courses on the itinerary. Imagine spending the morning playing the challenging Cabell B. Robinson-designed Spérone Golf Club. After making it through all 18-holes, you head out for a private tour and traditional french dinner at a cliffside vineyard. This cruise marries the best golf in the area with bucket list experiences.

Sample Itinerary

- Wander the beautiful streets of the Ciutat Vella (old town) of Barcelona
- Explore the Caves of Drach in Majorca
- Play three of the top-rated golf courses on the Mediterranean
- 24-hour access to PerryGolf pros
- Visit the Basilica dell'Annunziata in Sicily
- Enjoy a nature hike and alfresco lunch in Archipelago di La Maddalena National Park

South African Golf Land Tour

South Africa is home to almost two dozen of the world's best golf clubs. That's why it is considered one of the top five golfing destinations in the world. As an added bonus, South Africa is also home to breathtaking and diverse landscapes. Spend two weeks exploring the country. Begin your trip in Cape Town to take advantage of the luxury found within a major metropolis. Spend the next two weeks traveling the Garden Road through small beach villages and centuries-old vineyards. Stop at any of the country's best golf clubs like Leopard Creek Country Club, one of the only greens in the world where you might find zebras and giraffes grazing along the course. In between golfing, spend your evening in a luxury camp tent at Kruger National Park or in a charming Victorian bed and breakfast surrounded by vineyards.
